

Cartoons for the Classroom

Presented by NIEonline.com and the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC)

The power of 'what we know now'

'Knowing what we know...'

Clay Bennett, Chattanooga Times Free Press/ Courtesy of AAEC

Talking points

1. Republican Jeb Bush stumbled when he was asked if he would have invaded Iraq in 2003 'knowing what we know now.' How did he answer the question and what did he say in the following days?
2. What does Clay Bennett's cartoon say about politicians' changing statements on Iraq?
3. What does Bob Englehart say about politicians who supported the Iraq War?
4. Was the Iraq War a mistake? Why or why not?
5. Are we too quick to fight?

Between the lines

"I interpreted the question wrong, I guess. . . Clearly there were mistakes made as they related to faulty intelligence." - Jeb Bush.

<http://onpolitics.usatoday.com/2015/05/12/jeb-bush-gets-hit-over-the-iraq-war/>

Additional resources

More by Clay Bennett

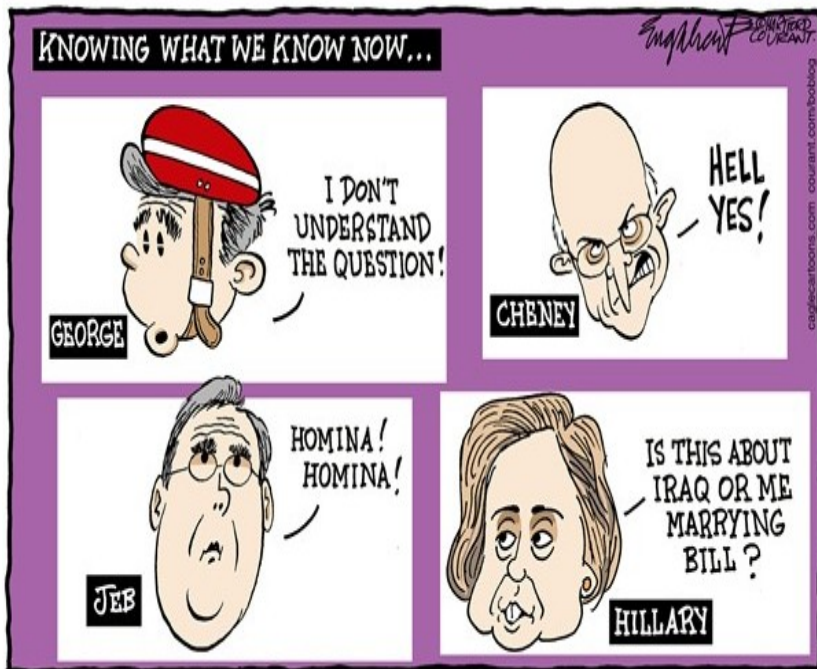

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/cartoon/browse.cfm/BenneC>

More by Bob Englehart

<http://www.cagle.com/author/bob-englehart/>

Association of American Editorial Cartoonists

<http://editorialcartoonists.com>

Bob Englehart, Hartford Courant / Courtesy of Cagle.com