

Cartoons for the Classroom

Presented by NIEonline.com and the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC)

Are they royal renegades or refugees?

Steve Sack, Minneapolis Star Tribune / Courtesy of Cagle.com

Talking Points

1. What do these cartoons say about Prince Harry and Meghan “stepping back” from their duties as British royals?
2. Do you think they’re a young family escaping a relentless media or are they slackers hoping to cash in on fame?
3. Do you think racism had anything to do with attacks in British tabloids over Meghan Markle’s role in the royal family?
4. Is Prince Harry right to blame the tabloid press in the death of his mother, Princess Diana?
5. Does the world really need any royalty? Why or why not?

Between the lines

“Thank God they are free. Nobody should tolerate bullying and abusive behavior because of the color of their skin.” - Sanaa Edness.

“The criticism of Meghan Markle has nothing to do with her skin color and everything to do with her being a shameless piece of work.” - Piers Morgan.

<https://www.nytimes.com/2020/01/10/world/europe/harry-meghan-markle-racism.html>

Additional resources

■ More by Steve Sack

<https://www.cagle.com/author/steve-sack/>

■ More by Dave Granlund

<https://www.cagle.com/author/dave-granlund/>

■ Association of American Editorial Cartoonists

<http://editorialcartoonists.com/>

Dave Granlund / Courtesy of Cagle.com