Sunshine Week

Sunshine Week is a national initiative to open a dialogue about the importance of open government and freedom of information. Though spearheaded by journalists, Sunshine Week is about the public’s right to know what its government is doing, and why.

Sunshine Week seeks to enlighten and empower people to play an active role in their government at all levels, and to give them access to information that makes their lives better and their communities stronger.

-- From Sunshine Week: Your right to know

http://www.sunshineweek.org

Talking points

1. How do you answer the question Etta Hulme poses in her cartoon: “Is open government a threat to tyranny or to democracy?” Why do dictators find it necessary to keep their government actions secret and limit access to information? Why is it so hard sometimes to get information from our own government?

2. Mike Keefe’s cartoon points out the government knows a lot more about you than you know about the government and that fact should make you uncomfortable. A free press is essential to keeping the public informed about what the government is doing. How do cartoonists fit in?

3. The Freedom of Information Act is a critical tool in a journalist’s arsenal. Do some research and explain what FOIA is and why it’s so important to shine the light on government secrecy.

Additional resources

Association of American Editorial Cartoonists http://editorialcartoonists.com/

More by Etta Hulme
http://www.star-telegram.com/205/index.html

More by Mike Keefe
http://www.denverpost.com/keefe

Cartoons for the Classroom is available through Newspaper in Education programs. Copyright Online Publications Inc. and NIEonline.com