	Dow surges nearly 500 points on news of asset-purchase plan, home-sale increase	!
	By Tim Paradis
	The Associated Press
	NEW YORK» Wall Street got the news it wanted on the economy's biggest problems — banks and housing — and celebrated by hurtling the Dow Jones industrials up nearly 500 points.
	Investors added rocket fuel Monday to a two-week advance, cheering the government's plan to help banks remove bad assets from their books and welcoming a report showing a surprising increase in home sales. Major stock indicators surged more than 6 percent, including the Dow, which had its biggest percentage gain since October.
	Analysts who have seen the market's recent false starts are still hesitant to say that Wall Street is indeed recovering from the collapse that began last fall. But the banking and housing news bolstered the growing belief that the economy is starting to heal, and that is what had investors buying.
	"It's just hard to argue that there isn't an improvement in economic activity on the horizon," said Jim Dunigan, executive vice president at PNC Wealth Management.
	The market began turning around two weeks ago on news that Citigroup was operating at a profit in January and February. A spate of more upbeat economic reports helped the market build on its gains, although the rally stalled last Thursday and Friday.
a	Analysts said they saw more fundamental strength in Monday's buying than they saw at the start of the rally. Dave Rovelli managing director of trading at brokerage Canaccord Adams, said there appeared to be less short covering, which occurs when traders are forced to buy to cover misplaced bets that stocks would fall.

TIP: Each time you see an article you want to read, click on the headline to enlarge it. That way you will get the article plus any accompanying photos, graphics, or charts.

Click on the Search tab (9) to search for specific keywords. Under Look in you can choose between today's issue or all 30 days. Under Show you can choose articles, ads, pictures or all content. For each result, you'll get a small page thumbnail, a headline, first line, date, section and page number. Click on the thumbnail or headline to see the article on the page to the right. Click "full text" to view the text of the article in a new window.

Short covering contributed to the market's surge after the Citigroup news.
